Schools open, all goes well

By FRANCES ABBITT

"All of us, school administrators, teachers, parents and students alike are excited about the opportunities available in our school division for the coming year," commented Lloyd Walton, Superintendent of the Appomattox County School Division, after Monday's opening of county schools.

The enrollment figure for the coming year of 1983-84 came out pretty much as projected with a total enrollment of 2464, which is only 66 students down from last year's enrollment.

"Students were supposed to come to school this year with proof of immunization," Walton said.

"Last spring records were carefully checked and a letter was sent to those students who were deficient in the immunization program; they were advised to see their family physician or the health department to complete their immunization program and obtain the necessary proof," said Walton.

"On Monday, the first day of school, 50 children came to school without the necessary proof of immunization. Again letters were sent home to the parents by the students. We are receiving excellent response. So far, we have not had to terminate school attendance for any student because of the failure to have completed immunization," Walton added.

However, Walton added, "failure of parents and students to cooperate in completing immunization and obtaining the necessary proof could lead to termination of school attendance for a student."

"We are participating with the State Department of Education in a Rural School Effectiveness Project. Through this we will receive leadership assistance from the State Department to determine ways to improve reading and math in the school division."

"We will also use a small grant from the state enabling specialists and consultants to provide in-school training for administrators and others in these two disciplines," Walton added.

The State Board of Education has approved revised accreditation standards which will require all students who graduate from high school beginning with the freshmen class of 1984-85 to complete 20 units for a regular diploma and 22 units for the advanced diploma. The new regulations will call for added units in math and science.

As far as facilities are concerned, "they are in excellent condition," commented Walton. "They are comfortable, attractive, and conducive to good classroom environment. The improved facilities will enable us to save numerous dollars in energy."

APPOMATTOX COUNTY SHERIFF GENE RICHARDSON shows several of the more than 250 marijuana plants found in Appomattox County recently during a two-week cooperative investigative effort involving the Sheriff's Department and the Virginia State Police. The investigation, which involved other counties in Central Virginia as well as Appomattox, turned up a vast array of the illegal plants. The marijuana found in Appomattox County was estimated to have a street value of more than $75,000. Two arrests had been made in connection with the investigation when this photo was taken, and a third arrest was pending. (Photo by Bill Sherrod)

Bollinger joins staff

Cindy Y. Bollinger has joined the Times-Virginian newspaper staff as receptionist and classified ad/circulation manager.

She replaces Melaine B. Fraley, who has left Appomattox to join her husband, Lt. Charles Fraley, who was recently promoted by the Virginia State Police and transferred to Salem, Va.

Cindy is a native of Crewe, Va., where she graduated from Nottoway Senior High School in 1972.

She has served in a variety of capacities during her working career, including bank teller, salesperson, receptionist, and dental assistant.

In addition to her duties as receptionist, Cindy will be helping customers with their classified advertising and subscription needs.

A resident of Evergreen, Cindy is married to Jimmy Bollinger. They attend Evergreen Methodist Church where she plays piano and organ, teaches Sunday School, and is involved in a number of other church activities. She enjoys sewing, and describes herself as "an avid fan of Appomattox County High School athletics."

"I'm very happy to be working with the Times-Virginian," notes Cindy. "I'm looking forward to serving the people of Appomattox County throughout the newspaper."

Railroad Festival nears

The Historic Appomattox Railroad Festival is right around the corner. The dates for this year's activities are Saturday, Oct. 8, and Sunday, Oct. 9 and the fun begins with a parade on Saturday morning at 10 a.m. Jeff Taylor of WSET TV will be head conductor and the Clark Family Band will be Grand Marshalls. Visitors to the festival will have the opportunity of hearing them perform after the parade in the downtown area.

Down at the Depot there will be arts, crafts, exhibits, and of course, there will be food concessions of all kinds.

Music throughout the day, children's games and rides, contests of all kinds and even a Karate demonstration means there's something for everyone during the two-day festival.

New events have been added this year to offer even more entertainment. Among them are Fireman's Competition, an antique show, Helicopter Rides and a Military Equipment Display.

At 1 p.m. on Saturday, the Joe Sweeney Footrace will take place. On Saturday evening fireworks and a street dance will climax the day's activities.

A bit of rain and opening of schools make a lot of difference. A friend from Vera reported 1.6 inches of rain Sunday night. And school buses were rolling Monday morning. Did not forget to tip my hat as drove up Confederate Blvd. and passed the two lady traffic directors looking out for the buses. Ah yes, the world is a bit rosier this week. During the long dry spell I stored the lawnmower, but may have to roll it out for a bit of action. Lots of entries on the old note pad, so let's get with it.

Thanks to Mrs. Ella (B.G.) Anderson for a nice letter. A popular home demonstration agent here for many years, she now lives in Lynchburg.

An interesting newspaper supplement on hunting and fishing in Virginia has lots of statistics. There are an estimated 420,000 whitetail deer in the Old Dominion and hunters are expected to bag some 90,000 this season. And about 1,500 black bears and over 75,000 wild turkeys. For freshwater fishing, here are some Virginia weight records: largemouth bass, state record, 14 pounds, two ounces; small mouth bass eight pounds; striped bass, 39 pounds, eight ounces, walleye, 22 pounds, eight ounces; rainbow trout, 10 pounds, 10 ounces; carp, 60 pounds. Saltwater fish much larger. Blue Marlin state record is 1,093 lbs. 12 ounces, Channel bass, 85 pounds, four ounces, Croaker, five pounds, nine ounces. What's the biggest fish ever caught in Appomattox County? Do not ask me.

Ready for football, but still have not seen as ACHS schedule. Same for Slippery Rock. My Alma Mater needs help. Only reason, maybe, the Spiders did not lose eleven games last year was they only played ten. Things are bound to get better. Area college football predictions favor U. of N.C. and Maryland.

Comment on TV programs. The expression, "Don't go away, I'll be right back" is overworked.

Asked a friend, "Did you enjoy your vacation?" Replied, "Sure did. I stayed at home and did nothing."

If you inisist on finding some good news, you will. Like getting my bank statement and finding I had ninety-two cents more then I thought. Who needs a computer when you do that well without one!

Get out your Bible and read Deuteronomy 33:24. Gives a tip on where to drill for oil.

This part of the state, B & W stands for Babcock and Wilcox. Around Petersburg, Hopewell, B. & W stands for Brown and Williamson. Both important payrolls.

Appomattox's Bill Jamerson is on the list of officials for Atlantic Coast Conference football. One of the best.

Thanks to Watkins Abbitt Jr. for bringing me some old papers and a 1902 copy of The Woman's Magazine, St. Louis. Wow, you should see the fashions! And prices. One advertiser would outfit a man from hat to shoes for $10. Big bicycle, $8.95. Huge ladies hat, $1.95. Large home organ, $27.95. Yes, but what about wages.

Thanks for reading and seeya around.

Printing schedule changes

Beginning next week, the Times-Virginian newspaper will be printed on Tuesday afternoon and distributed Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning.

The paper will be printed in Farmville, and delivered to local newsstands which are open after 6 p.m. on Tuesday night. The remainder of the newsstands will get their papers Wednesday morning.

The mail subscribers in Appomattox County and surrounding areas will receive their copies of the paper in Wednesday's mail.

The new printing schedule will require that the news and advertising deadline be moved from 2 p.m. Tuesday to 3 p.m. Monday. Material to be considered for publicaiton must be in the Times-Virginian office no later than 3 p.m. the Monday prior to that week's paper.

News and advertising sources are encouraged to prepare their material in time for composition on Friday.

Next week's paper will be published according to the new schedule. The office will be open on the Labor Day holiday.

Beef Festival gets boost from Kyanite Farms gift

The Appomattox Fall Beef Festival got a boost last week from Kyanite Farms, which donated a young steer for the upcoming autumn food festival.

The festival, slated for Sept. 14 at the Paradise Lake Campground off Route 460 west of the town of Appomattox, will feature U.S. choice beef prepared in a variety of mouth-watering ways, as well as live music, beverages, and fellowship.

Dewey Fannon, who manages the Kyanite farms operation near Madisonville, says that he was "happy to assist the Appomattox Lions Club" in preparing for the beef festival. "We feel that this is helping a good cause, and we are always interested in promoting beef and beef products, Fannon noted.

The steer was delivered to Locust Grove Farm last week, and it was scheduled to be taken to market to be sold. The proceeds will be used to help finance the beef festival.

Tickets to the festival are still available, according to Ronnie Spiggle, festival chairman.

Lions Club officials are hopeful that local citizens will take the opportunity to enjoy the fine food and fellowship planned for this event, and in doing so help support the Lions' many community projects.

For ticket information, contact any Lions Club member. Tickets may be purchased at Farmers National Bank, Central Fidelity Bank, Wilburn's Supermarket and the Times-Virginian newspaper.
